

Dear (name of who will receive this letter)

I am the parent of a (x) year old student at (name of the school). I have observed with stupor and very carefully, the modifications made to the education curriculum in our state's education system. As a citizen - or legal resident - of this great country, I strongly oppose these changes.

Sexual orientation, in my view, should be carried out by the parents of children and grandchildren: not by the state. Because of my moral and/or religious convictions, I do not agree with the so-called "gender ideology". I think humans are born female or male (girls and boys), regardless of whether they choose a specific sexual orientation along the way.

The movement called "Black Lives Matter" is a politically inspired organization, without social inspiration and much less educational, so I refuse to have my child indoctrinated under the postulates of this or any other political institution.

Considering that every human being's life begins at the very moment of conception, I am totally and absolutely against abortion and far less interested that the education department of my state "orients" my child on this very scabrous and conflicting matter.

I believe in the truthfulness of biological science and mathematics; subjects that have nothing to do with racism, as it is already spreading in schools throughout this country.

I don't believe in the so-called "racial supremacy": white black or any other. I don't see why white citizens have to feel guilty about events that happened centuries ago. I understand that there are many ways to deal with the old issue of slavery in ways other than how it has been chosen to be carried out by our education department officials.

I don't have the means to educate my child in our home and I depend on the education of my state's public schools. Should I had these means, you can be sure that I would choose to educate my children in my home, according to our moral concepts inherited from our parents and teachers of a nation that was once the light of democracy throughout the globe.

Without further attempt,
